

Since
1832

In the old, old days mother would lift you out of bed those cold mornings, wrap you in her shawl, carry you down to the warm kitchen and sit you in front of the glowing range.

And, while the good old-fashioned breakfast was cooking, and the good old-fashioned fire crackled, what was the name you spelled out on the oven door?

"S-T-E-W-A-R-T," of course.

For eighty-four years the Stewart product has led in efficiency and durability. See the up-to-the-minute models at any of the dealers mentioned below; learn how they take away much of the drudgery and expense of kitchen work by saving fuel, time and labor. Made by

When a man is single he has a whole chifftonier and a closet for his wearing apparel. After he is married he is awarded a corner in one drawer of the chifftonier and restricted to one hook in the closet.

If someone would start up some of the good old fashioned grist mills we would hear less about bread going up.—Northfield News.

Some years ago the owner of a good water power in the town of Jericho installed a flouring mill and attempted to revive the growing of wheat by the farmers in the adjoining towns. Statistics have always shown that more bushels of wheat to the acre can be raised in Vermont than in many of the great grain growing states of the west. The Jericho miller based his venture on this fact, but he failed to bring the farmers to his way of thinking and the project was abandoned.

Candidating in Vermont.
Cost Page $21,000, Fletcher $22,000.—
Morning News Item, Sept. 27.

You bet that folks up here this week
Set up and noticed, when they read How much it cost in old Vermont.

To keep an inside horse ahead:
It's quite a generous sum to pay

To show the voters what they want;
It also shows the need of dough

To run for office in Vermont.

I guess a lot of common folks
Will add, subtract and then divide

To see just why it comes so high
To keep an outside horse outside;

You wouldn't s'pose 'twould cost so much

To show the Voters what they want—

It ain't no place for poor folks, sure,
To run for office in Vermont.

I guess that Edmunds when he read That item made an Edmunds pause,

And wondered why a man will spend
So much to help to make the laws;

I guess if Morrill could return
To earth from his eternal jaunt,

He'd think that office comes quite high
These days in honest old Vermont.

I'd like to be "upstairs" and hear What Foot and Collamer will say

When they find out how much it costs
To be a Senator today;

I guess you'd hear 'em both remark—
"There ain't a single thing we want."

We bless the Lord that we are through With office-holding in Vermont."

The Glowworm Cigarette.

Did you ever walk along at night and see a little round glow of light about the size of a marrowfat pea on the sidewalk or out in the main street? That is the glowworm cigarette. And that little glowworm is responsible for more fires than all the tramps, incendiaries and poor chimney sweeps put together. No one is in sight, but there it burns, and burns, and burns, as contentedly as if there was a human auction pump behind it. Many brands of cigarettes will burn themselves all up in this way, and this is where the element of danger comes in.

Just watch the smoker of a cigarette. In most cases when half or three-quarters consumed the smoker gives them a fling and they land somewhere. Then the glowworm period begins. And if the landing place is suitably conditioned, sometime, with no one being, any the wiser, the fire alarm is rung. You have seen these things, in the street, in the stable, when the party enters a house, or is in the woods, or wherever he may happen to be. The flinging process is a natural one, inherited with other thoughtless faults. Whenever the cigarette has fulfilled its mission it is flung; and, rest assured, still burning in nine cases out of ten. So the little innocent looking glowworm cigarette becomes the cutest modern devil to start a conflagration of anything there is outside of a lighted match.—Newport Express and Standard.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing her work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

FATIMA

A Sensible Cigarette

Such men want comfort
AFTER smoking

IT'S NOTICEABLE that more and more substantial men are choosing Fatimas for their steady smoke. There must be some reason for it. Surely, these men would quickly pay a far higher price for another cigarette if it suited them better.

That is just it. No other cigarette can quite give what Fatimas give.

Some other cigarettes taste good, yes. But Fatimas do more—they are comfortable. Not only are they comfortable to the throat and tongue while you smoke them, but, much more important, they leave a man feeling keen and "fit" AFTER smoking, even though he smokes more than usual.

YOU men who travel about, you know the hats that men are wearing.

For your new Fall Hat, come in and look over the superb line of new Stetsons.
They are in our window, but the only way to the true value of a really fine hat is the way it looks on the man who wears it.

We kept in mind a half hundred or so men when we picked our line—and found a range of Stetsons to give each man ample opportunity for style—for men are not content with one hat only in these well-dressed times.

Should It Be Printed
The editor of The St. Johnsbury Caledonian after having told the paper's readers that a case of infant paralysis had developed in the community, received a visit from the board of electmen, the health officer, and a prominent merchant who gave earnest voice to their disapproval of the publication of that bit of news.
They were laboring under the impression that such publication was harmful to business.

The Messenger doubts very much whether the printing of a news item of this kind has the serious effect on business which many merchants think. Sometimes people seem to think that the only way news can gain currency is through the columns of a newspaper, when it is a notorious fact that such matters are passed about from mouth to mouth with great celerity; and over large areas.

And in the passing they are apt to grow. One case can be magnified into an epidemic if Dame Rumor is so disposed. As a general rule, the Messenger would say that the real interests of business men are better protected in that community where the full truth is told about such matters and where the people can feel that the paper is giving them the truth than in the community where the paper, with excellent intention, agrees to suppress the facts.

As for the public itself, it unquestionably is entitled to the news. It is the function of the paper to supply the people with that commodity. Furthermore, the people have a right to expect that their servant, the health officer, will keep them informed as to matters of health in the community.
There is no safety in ignorance; knowledge gives opportunity to safeguard.

Therefore, not only does the merchant not lose in the long run when the truth is told, but the general well-being is the better served by an exact knowledge of such affairs. People as a rule do not become panic stricken in such matters and panic may be averted by co-operation between the health officer and the newspapers in the publication of sound advice and warnings.—St. Albans Messenger.
